

In my project for web development I will use the controller view model, since it will help me control the server resources, avoiding Bugs that may affect the performance of the database.

View:

Adoption Form

Register Form

Defines display

Sends input from users

Contain controls logic (receives update from view)